Mr. John T. Harrison,

Dear Mr. Harrison:

Your letter of the 19th came to hand but unfortunately the key was missing. This, however, makes little difference as we had a key here that opened the case. I have been sorting out these coins and have sold a few. I will report concerning the whole transaction before the summer is out.

Very truly yours,

Curator

Dear Mr. Harrison:

I have finally sold all the coins you handed me last spring, and I think, on the whole, I got good prices. In fact, I know I got better prices than you would have been able to get. The total came to $300.44, a cheque for which amount is enclosed. I kept for the Society the dollar that we wanted and gave you $25 for it, which is what a dealer would give for it. I still have on hand the coin cabinet; this is worth about $5.00.

Very truly yours,

Dear Mr. Wood:-

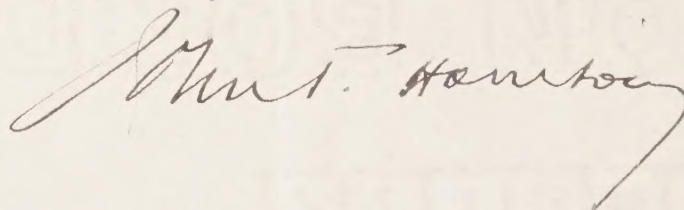

Thank you for your letter of November 10th, enclosing check for $300.44, representing the amount you obtained for the coins, which were the property of my children and the children of Mrs. Harrison's two sisters.

I am glad that you found a dollar which your Society was interested in.

Regarding the cabinet, if you can dispose of it, for what you consider is a fair value, will you please do so? If there is any difficulty in doing so, and you will let me know, I will send for it.

With appreciation to you for the time you have given to this matter, and asking that you let me know if I am indebted to you for expenses, etc. incurred in connection with this transaction, I am,

Very truly yours,

Dear Mr. Harrison:

Your letter just at hand. As regards the coin cabinet, I might as well hold it here as I can eventually sell it. There were no expenses incurred in selling the coins, which I was very glad to do for you.

Curator

Dear Mr. Wood:

My secretary, at my request, called you on the telephone this morning, but found you had gone home and would not return to your office to-day. Therefore, I am taking the liberty of writing you in regard to the following:

My sister-in-law, Mrs. Hall Harrison, of Baltimore, Maryland, has a number of half dimes of the years 1853 and 1854, and she is interested in knowing the value attaching to these coins. If you could help me in connection with this matter, so that I may advise her, I shall be greatly obliged to you.

Thanking you in advance,

Yours faithfully,

Kindest regards.

Dear Mr. Harrison:

The half dimes of 1854 are about the commonest of the series and would bring anywhere from five to fifteen cents according to condition. Those with a small o on the back for the New Orleans mint might bring a few cents more. Of the 1853's those without arrow points at side of date might bring from ten to fifty cents each. Those with a small o on the reverse should bring a dollar or more. With arrow points at side of date, with or without the o on the reverse would bring from five to fifteen cents each. If Mrs. Harrison wishes to sell them I would advise her to write to Mr. Wayte Raymond, 465 Park Avenue, New York City.

Very truly yours,
